Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

Ga-Mohana The Hill of WONDERS

When Luvo woke up on Sunday morning, he grabbed his storybook and went to sit next to Makhulu.

"Do giraffes live on Ga-Mohana Hill?"
he asked.

"No tall giraffes,
eating leaves
from the thorn trees here," she said gently.

"Is a big lion hiding on Ga-Mohana Hill?"
he wondered.

"No lions here," Makhulu said.
"Let's go and see."

Outside,
Ga-Mohana Hill's
rocky slopes
glowed in the sun.

"Look, Makhulu!
A dassie!"
Luvo called.

"There goes a hare," whispered Makhulu.

"Many birds live here, too,"
Makhulu said softly.

"Look, Makhulu!

Look at this stone!"

Makhulu nodded.
"This stone is called a tiger's eye.
You see, this hill gives us special treasures, too."

"Ga-Mohana
really is a Hill of Wonders."
