

What's in the Pot?

This book belongs to

Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative professionals who volunteer to create new, African storybooks that anyone can freely translate and distribute. To find out more, and to download beautiful, print-ready books, visit bookdash.org.

What's in the Pot?

Illustrated by Jane Versfeld

Written by Crystal Warren

Designed by Rat Western

Edited by Nabeela Latha Kalla

with the help of the Book Dash participants in Grahamstown on 12 November 2016 .

ISBN: [Book Dash to insert]

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 Licence (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>). You are free to share (copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format) and adapt (remix, transform, and build upon the material) this work for any purpose, even commercially. The licensor cannot revoke these freedoms as long as you follow the following license terms:

Attribution: You must give appropriate credit, provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made. You may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggests the licensor endorses you or your use.

No additional restrictions: You may not apply legal terms or technological measures that legally restrict others from doing anything the license permits.

Notices: You do not have to comply with the license for elements of the material in the public domain or where your use is permitted by an applicable exception or limitation.

No warranties are given. The license may not give you all of the permissions necessary for your intended use. For example, other rights such as publicity, privacy, or moral rights may limit how you use the material.

What's in the Pot?

Jane Versfeld

Crystal Warren

Rat Western

“What’s for supper?” asked Sam.
“It’s a surprise”, said Mama,
putting a big pot on the stove.

She added a jug of water. Sam was worried.
“Are we having water for supper?” he wailed.

“It’s a surprise. Wait and see.” replied Mama.

“Can I help?” asked Sam. “ I could stir.”

“You are still a bit short,” said Mama. “The pot might fall over. But you can help me by fetching things.”

Can you bring me an onion, please.

This doesn't smell very nice.

They will taste nice once they are cooked.

Now I need some tomatoes.

No, that is an apple. The tomatoes are also round and red, but you will find them in the fridge.

Can you bring me potatoes. They are round and brown.

Is supper ready yet?

If you are hungry you can eat the apple while you wait.

What about these?

No, we won't need biscuits. We can save those for after supper.

Please get me some carrots.

What's in the pot?'

It's a surprise. Wait and see.

What about this?

That is a watermelon. It will be too big for the pot. See if you can find some spinach. It is also green.

Please get some bread.

No, it won't go into the pot but on the table.

Mama carried the pot to the table and started to dish up.
“What’s in the pot?” asked
Sam.

Soup! My favourite!

