Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

To find out more, and to download beautiful, open-licensed, print-ready books, visit bookdash.org.

Jock is an old dog.

His ears are floppy.

His legs are bendy.

His eyes are cloudy.

But he still runs fast!

And his smile is wide.

A watercolor illustration depicting a scene at sunset. In the upper left, a large, bright orange sun is partially obscured by soft, hazy clouds. A man with dark skin, wearing an orange long-sleeved shirt, orange trousers, and a grey beanie, walks towards the right. He is holding a thin wooden stick in his right hand. To his left, a light-colored dog with a long, wavy coat walks alongside him. To the right of the man, a young boy with dark skin, wearing a red and white striped shirt and blue trousers, walks towards the right. They are walking on a dirt path. In the background, a rustic wooden fence made of vertical posts and horizontal rails runs across the scene. Behind the fence, there are green bushes and trees. The overall color palette is warm, dominated by oranges, yellows, and browns, with some green for the vegetation. The style is soft and painterly, characteristic of watercolor art.

When the sun
goes down

he walks along the fence
with Tatomkhulu.

They greet their friends.

They count the sheep.

They check the gates.

Jock sleeps outside.
When it rains, he sleeps under the bakkie.

He loves Tatomkhulu.

He loves chicken.
Sometimes he gets some!

He also loves me.
