Blue Bird is bored. "I am tired of this nest,"
he says.

"We need a new home."

"If you insist,"
says Brown Bird.

"But I am not moving unless the new nest is better than the one that we have now."

"Oh yes,"
says Blue Bird.

"It will be a great nest.
I will find the best nest ever!"

“Look at this lovely nest! It is soft and cosy.
And we can each have our own bed.

This is the best nest for us.”

But it isn't!

“Look at this beautiful nest. It is so bright and colourful.

This is the very best nest.”

But it isn't!

“Look at this shiny nest. See how it sparkles.

This is the best nest yet.”

But it isn't!

“Look at this large nest!
It even has its own door.

This is the best nest of all.”

But it isn't!

“Look at this nest.
See how well it has been built.

This is the best nest ever.”

An illustration of two birds on a nest made of sticks. The bird on the left is blue with a long, straight orange beak and a small tuft of feathers on its head. It is looking towards the right. The bird on the right is brown with a long, straight orange beak and a small tuft of feathers on its head. It is looking towards the left. The foreground is filled with green leaves and small red berries. The background is a light blue sky with white clouds.

“Yes, it is,”
says Brown Bird.
